Prepare Personnel to Develop Open Online Courses

August 13, 2019, Lecturers in the Digital Entrepreneurship Management Program, SSRUIC participated in the project to prepare personnel to develop open online courses or MOOC (Massive Open Online Course), which is a form of learning that is currently popular around the world since learners can learn from anywhere and can choose to develop oneself with knowledge or skills as needed. The International College was honored by experts in creating online courses from the Thai Cyber University Project providing knowledge about the MOOC development process, things to consider when creating an open online course, and testing the OpenEdX platform.
